Forecast For Southwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Wednesday 22 Sep 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Mostly dry overnight. Light rain Thursday.

This Evening and Tonight:
Clear spells and late sunshine this evening with some passing cloud over hills and western parts later. Quite cool in rural areas overnight with patchy mist and fog. Dry for most, but some rain possible along northern coasts by dawn. Minimum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Thursday:
Patchy rain becomes widespread across western areas through the morning, with eastern areas staying largely dry. Rain eases through the afternoon, as skies clear through the evening. Breezy. Maximum temperature 20 deg C (68 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Often cloudy with patchy light rain on Friday and Saturday, and winds easing through Friday. Sunny spells and showers Sunday, heavy and possibly thundery. Feeling warm throughout.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.